

- Audited whether distance-based reliability estimation tracks representation geometry.
- Disentanglement training changed representation geometry by two orders of magnitude.
- Mahalanobis, cosine, and k-NN scorers all failed to track this geometric change.
- A supervised probe recovered domain information the scorers could not access.
- Information can be decodable yet inaccessible to distance-based estimators.